NFP Governance

ATO helps NFPs to comply

The Australian Taxation Office has compiled a list of online resources that aims to help NFPs in their annual reviews of tax compliance.

Included are an online guide on exemptions for sporting clubs and an income-tax-status review worksheet that most NFPs should be able to use.

The tax office encourages charities to review annually their Tax Concession Charities endorsement concessions and deductible-gift-recipient status.

NFPs with DGR status should also review their organisations to ensure that they still operate for the purposes for which they were granted DGR endorsement.

Two worksheets will assist you in reviewing DGR endorsement:

- Review of a DGR-endorsed as a whole, and
- Review of a DGR-endorsed for the operation of a fund, authority or institution it owns or includes.

For further information see <https://www.ato.gov.au/Non-profit/Newsroom/General/Have-you-completed-your-annual-review-/>.

ATO warns on COVID lurks

The ATO says it will stamp down on anyone engaging in illegal behaviour or developing contrived schemes to take advantage of COVID-19 stimulus packages.

Behaviours that attract the ATO's attention include:

- Payments to employers who do not meet the eligibility requirements or do not have eligible employees
- Falsifying records or revising activity statements to meet the fall in turnover test, and
- Applying for JobKeeper where there is no evidence of being an eligible not-for-profit organisation or and ACNC registered charity.

To date, the tax office has refused more than 6500 applications for JobKeeper due to either ineligibility or fraudulent behaviour, but more businesses can expect to see their payments suspended as 3000 officers are tasked with compliance activity.

The office will resolve genuine mistakes.

'We also encourage applicants to review their applications and ensure they are complying with all their obligations. Failure to do so can result in overpayment as well as significant penalties. This is particularly so if we contact you and you do not take any action to rectify', says an ATO spokesperson.

Superannuation-guarantee amnesty closing

The federal government has introduced a superannuation-guarantee amnesty. The amnesty allows employers to disclose and pay previously unpaid super-guarantee charges, including nominal interest, that they owe their employees, for quarters starting from 1 July 1992 to 31 March 2018, without incurring the administration component ($20 per employee per quarter) or Part 7 penalty.

The amnesty finishes on 7 September and cannot be extended. Apply now for this one-off opportunity to correct past unpaid super, avoiding administration charges and penalties.

For further information see https://www.ato.gov.au/Business/Super-for-employers/Superannuation-Guarantee-amnesty/?=redirected_Sgamesty?utm_campaign=nfp_news_service_issue_5_2020&utm_source=newsletter&utm_medium=email&utm_term=20200609&utm_content=issue_5

DGR reforms delayed, but not for long

Assistant minister for finance, charities and electoral matters Zed Seselja has announced that the government remains committed to reforming the administration and oversight of the deductible-gift-recipient status.

But given legislative delays brought on by the COVID-19 pandemic, three reforms that were scheduled to be implemented from 1 July have been delayed. The reforms will instead begin three months after royal assent.

They relate to:

- Requiring non-government organisations wishing to hold DGR status to be registered as a charity with the ACNC
- The removal of public-fund requirements for DGRs, and
- Transferring the administration of the four DGR registers to the ATO and the ACNC.

DGRs that are not yet registered as charities are encouraged to do so ahead of the legislative amendments.

National regulatory approach to charitable fundraising

State and territory NFP regulators have issued a statement about the enforcement approach they will take in the light of COVID-19.

The COVID-19 Statement of Regulatory Intent responds to laws made because of the pandemic.

Regulators across Australia recognise that COVID-19 has created an exceptional set of circumstances that will have significant effects on charitable fundraisers.

They might, for instance, need to comply with many fundraising laws (including several registrations) if they intend to raise money in more than one state or territory.

For fundraisers that cannot comply with relevant legislative requirements due to the impacts of COVID-19, regulators will take a supportive and educative approach when assessing compliance.

Regulators will continue to monitor the situation and provide advice and help, they say.

NSW Fair Trading, for instance, recognises that due to the pandemic many authority holders may experience difficulty in complying with their statutory obligations under the Charitable Fundraising Act 1991.

Charitable 'fundraising authority' holders unaffected by the pandemic are expected to honour their existing obligations under the act.

Where an authority holder cannot comply due to factors outside its control associated with the pandemic, NSW Fair Trading will take a supportive and educative approach to assessing compliance. The approach will be implemented provided that authority holders have made genuine documented attempts to comply.

Requirements that might be affected by the pandemic include:

- Lodgement of financial returns/reports and other documents under section 23, and
- Annual auditing requirements for authority holders that receive more than $250,000 gross in any financial year under section 24.

NSW Fair Trading reserves the right to vary its approach as appropriate, particularly in circumstances that might involve a significant risk of harm to the community.

If organisations are experiencing difficulties in complying with their statutory obligations as a result of COVID-19, they may contact NSW Fair Trading.

Good-governance guides released

The Governance Institute (<https://www.governanceinstitute.com.au/>) has released three new good-governance guides that explore key challenges.

Topics examined include:

Technology governance:

- The role of technology governance in a corporate-governance framework
- The role of directors
- Technology-governance committees, and
- Emerging technology, innovation opportunities and risks.

Emerging risk:

- What are emerging risks?
- Environmental and social risks
- Technology risks, and
- Where are emerging risks recorded?

Compliance guide (revised):

- A compliance framework
- Compliance culture
- Compliance management systems, and
- Oversight of the compliance function.

Financial reporting insights

Several AASBs operative for 30 June

Under AASB 15 Revenue from Contracts with Customers, revenue is recognised so that promised goods and services are transferred in an amount that reflects the consideration to which their provider expects to be entitled.

AASB 15 requires the application of a five-step model:

- Identify the contract(s) with a customer
- Identify the performance obligations under the contract(s)
- Determine the transaction price
- Allocate the transaction price to the performance obligations under the contract(s), and

- Recognise revenue when (or as) the entity satisfies the performance obligations.

AASB 2016-8 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards – Australian Implementation Guidance for Not-for-Profit Entities inserts Australian requirements and authoritative implementation guidance for not-for-profit entities into AASB 15 and AASB 9 Financial Instruments. The guidance assists NFPs in applying those standards to particular transactions and other events.

The amendments to AASB 15 address the identification of a contract with a customer and its performance obligations. It also examines the allocation of transaction price to performance obligations.

Amendments to AASB 9 address the initial measurement and recognition of non-contractual receivables arising from statutory requirements, including taxes, rates and fines.

AASB 1058 Income of Not-for-Profit Entities is likely to have a significant impact on NFPs' income recognition.

They should consider how assets received below fair value, transfers received to acquire or construct non-financial assets, grants received, prepaid rates, and volunteer services and leases entered into at below market rates are likely to affect them.

AASB 2018-4 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards – Australian Implementation Guidance for Not-for-Profit Public Sector Licensors amends AASB 15 to add requirements and authoritative implementation guidance for application by NFP public-sector licensors to transactions involving the issue of licences.

The amendments include:

- Expanding the scope of AASB 15 to include non-contractual licences
- Guidance distinguishing a licence from a tax
- Guidance clarifying the types of licences issued by not-for-profit public-sector licensors
- Guidance clarifying the application of the principles in AASB 15 to licences that are not within the scope of other Australian accounting standards, and
- Providing recognition exemptions for short-term licences and licences issued for a low transaction price.

The amendments to AASB 16 clarify that licences that are in substance leases or contain leases, except licences of intellectual property, fall within the scope of AASB 16.

AASB 16 Leases introduces a single lessee accounting model and requires a lessee to recognise assets and liabilities for leases with a term of more than 12 months unless the underlying asset is of low value.

A lessee is required to recognise a right-of-use asset representing its right to use the underlying leased asset, and a lease liability representing its obligation to make lease payments.

A lessee recognises depreciation of the right-of-use asset and interest on the lease liability. In the statement of cash flows, a lessee separates the total amount of cash paid into principal (presented within financing activities) and interest (presented within either operating or financing activities).

Assets and liabilities arising from a lease are initially measured on a present-value basis. The measurement includes non-cancellable lease payments (including inflation-linked payments), and payments to be made in optional periods if the lessee is reasonably certain to exercise an option to extend the lease, or not to exercise an option to terminate the lease.

Right-of-use asset falls within the scope of AASB 136 Impairment of Assets.

AASB 2018-8 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards – Right-of-Use Assets of Not-for-Profit Entities amends five standards to provide a temporary option for NFPs not to apply the fair-value initial-measurement requirements for right-of-use assets arising under leases with significantly below-market terms and conditions principally to enable the entity to further its objectives.

The standard requires an NFP that elects to apply the option (that is, measures a class or classes of such right-of-use assets at cost rather than fair value) to include additional disclosures in the financial statements to ensure that users understand the effects on the financial position, financial performance and cash flows of the entity arising from these leases.

AASB 2019-8 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards – Class of Right-of-Use Assets arising under Concessionary Leases amended AASB 16 to specify for NFPs that right-of-use assets arising under concessionary leases can be treated as a separate class of right-of-use assets from those arising under other leases for the purposes of AASB 16.

These accounting standards are complex and necessitate changes to reporting systems and related internal controls. Detailed accounting policy papers will need to be prepared by management and approved by governance. Financial statements will require significant revisions.

COVID-19 causes Leases amendment

AASB 16 Leases has been amended to exclude rent holidays caused by COVID-19 from being assessed as lease ‘modifications’.

The amendment provides a practical expedient that permits lessees not to assess whether rent concessions such as rent holidays and temporary rent reductions that occur as a direct consequence of the COVID-19 pandemic and meet specified conditions are lease modifications.

The standard amends AASB 16 to:

- Provide lessees with an optional practical expedient regarding assessing whether a COVID-19-related rent concession is a lease modification
- Require lessees that apply the practical expedient to account for COVID-19-related rent concessions as if they were not lease modifications
- Require a lessee that applies the practical expedient to disclose that it has applied it to rent concessions that meet the conditions, or, if not applied, to supply information about the nature of the contracts to which it has applied it
- Require lessees applying the practical expedient to disclose the amount recognised in profit or loss to reflect changes in lease payments that arise from

COVID-19-related rent concessions

- Require lessees to apply the practical expedient retrospectively at the start of the reporting period in which the expedient is first applied, and
- Not require lessees to disclose the information required by AASB 108 paragraph 28(f) in the reporting period in which the practical expedient is first applied.

AASB 2020-4 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards – Covid-19-Related Rent Concessions applies to annual periods beginning on or after 1 June. Earlier application is permitted, including in financial statements not authorised for issue at the date this standard was issued (15 June).

New SPFS disclosures apply for 30 June

New recognition and measurement disclosures are required by charities registered with the ACNC reporting on 30 June that have an annual revenue of $250,000 or more.

The disclosures apply to charities preparing special-purpose financial statements, and those (for example, companies limited by guarantee) lodging SPFSs with the Australian Securities and Investments Commission.

Under AASB 2019-4 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards – Disclosure in Special Purpose Financial Statements of Not-for-Profit Private Sector Entities on Compliance with Recognition and Measurement Requirements, SPFSs will need to disclose:

- Why the decision was made to prepare an SPFS
- For each material accounting policy that does not comply with the recognition and measurement requirements, an indication of where it does not comply or why the assessment has not been made
- The overall compliance of the SPFS with the recognition and measurement requirements of accounting standards (except for consolidation and equity accounting), or whether this assessment has not been made, and
- How the consolidation and equity accounting requirements have been applied.

GAAPinar No.13 Special Purpose Financial Reporting – the end is near (9 June) with Carmen Ridley addressed this topic. FAQs on accounting for government support

The Australian Accounting Standards Board has released staff-paper FAQs on Accounting for Government Support to identify standards that might be applied by for-profit and not-for-profit entities in accounting for COVID-19 government support.

To stimulate the economy and support entities affected most by the pandemic, governments are providing a range of financial support.

For many entities, accounting for it will be new (see https://www.aasb.gov.au/admin/file/content102/c3/Staff_FAQs_Gov_Grants_07_20.pdf).

COVID-19 and going concern

COVID-19 is having an unprecedented impact on the economic outlook for Australian and global economies.

For the first time, many entities will be required to consider in more detail their solvency and ability to continue operating as a going concern.

Surprisingly, there are only two paragraphs in AASB 101 Presentation of Financial Statements that directly address the going-concern basis:

‘25 When preparing financial statements, management shall make an assessment of an entity’s ability to continue as a going concern. An entity shall prepare financial statements on a going concern basis unless management either intends to liquidate the entity or to cease trading, or has no realistic alternative but to do so. When management is aware, in making its assessment, of material uncertainties related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt upon the entity’s ability to continue as a going concern, the entity shall disclose those uncertainties. When an entity does not prepare financial statements on a going concern basis, it shall disclose that fact, together with the basis on which it prepared the financial statements and the reason why the entity is not regarded as a going concern.’

‘26 In assessing whether the going concern assumption is appropriate, management takes into account all available information about the future, which is at least, but is not limited to, twelve months from the end of the reporting period. The degree of consideration depends on the facts in each case. When an entity has a history of profitable operations and ready access to financial resources, the entity may reach a conclusion that the going concern basis of accounting is appropriate without detailed analysis. In other cases, management may need to consider a wide range of factors relating to current and expected profitability, debt repayment schedules and potential sources of replacement financing before it can satisfy itself that the going concern basis is appropriate.’

To help with this assessment, the AASB and the Auditing and Assurance Standards Board have released a new 27-page publication The Impact of COVID-19 on Going Concern and Related Assessments that provides an overview of directors’ and management’s responsibilities. They are:

- Duties in relation to assessments of solvency and going concern, how these concepts interact and how they might be affected by COVID-19, and
- Responsibilities to assess whether the going-concern basis of preparation is appropriate and how this affects preparation and disclosures in financial statements.

The publication is available at https://www.aasb.gov.au/admin/file/content102/c3/AASB-AUASB_TheImpactOfCOVID19_05-19.pdf.

Our 7 May GAAPinar No. 7 *Managing and auditing going-concern risk with Colin Parker and Sonya Sinclair addressed the going basis of accounting. For those that missed it, a recording and PowerPoint participants’ notes are available, contact andrew@gaaptraining.com.au for further information or visit www.gaaptraining.com.au.

Understanding NFP standards

NFP preparers of financial statements may use the 46-page AASB-staff Modifications to Australian Accounting Standards for Not-for-Profit Entities to understand the extent and rationale of standards modifications.

The updates were made to reflect changes since May 2017.

The AASB uses IFRS standards as a base in developing standards for NFPs such as charities and public-sector entities. Where necessary, they are modified to address user needs and specific issues that would cause undue cost or effort to apply.

The publication helps NFP preparers and auditors to understand modifications to IFRS standards and Australian standards that apply to NFPs as well as the AASB’s rationale for the modifications.

It should also assist the transition from IFRS standards for those first encountering the Australian Financial Reporting Framework for NFPs.

ACNC activities

ACNC and COVID-19

The Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission has recognised that a charity’s usual operations might be affected by COVID-19 and has set up a dedicated web page <https://www.acnc.gov.au/node/5781959> to help charities.

Topics covered include:

- ACNC compliance during COVID-19
- Federal government support for eligible charities
- Charity meetings and AGMs

- Charity operations and governance
- Charity financial considerations
- Charity reserves
- Charity fundraising
- State and territory stimulus packages, and
- Other useful resources and information.

The ACNC has also updated its guidance on record-keeping, including more information on keeping records when working remotely and from home (<https://www.acnc.gov.au/for-charities/manage-your-charity/obligations-acnc/keep-charity-records>).

Release of The Australian Charities Report 2018

Australian charities’ revenue grew by more than 6 per cent in 2018, more than triple the Australian economy’s counterpart figure.

This is a key finding of the just-released ACNC’s Australian Charities Report 2018.

The report documents the contribution of Australian charities to the economy and communities both at home and abroad. It analyses information in charities’ annual information statements.

Key findings include:

- In the 2018 reporting year charity revenue grew by more than 6 per cent, significantly more than the Australian economy in the same period (1.9 per cent)
- Australia's charities, overall, operated at a surplus, supported by substantial assets
- Revenue was up by $9.3 billion, from $146.1 billion in 2017 to $155.4 billion in 2018
- Donations rose to $10.5 billion, an increase of $600 million from the previous year
- The largest charities (0.4 per cent of all charities) reported revenue of more than $100 million
- Assets increased by $18.7 billion to $323 billion
- Almost half of charity revenue came from government (47 per cent), and more than a third (34 per cent) was generated by providing goods and services (some of which were subsidised by government funding)
- Most charities were small (66 per cent) generating less than $250,000 in revenue, followed by large (18 per cent) with revenue of more than $1 million, and medium (16 per cent) with revenue of $250,000 or more but under $1 million
- Charities employed more than 1.3 million people
- Volunteer numbers across Australia's charity sector increased to 3.7 million, up 12 per cent on the previous year's figure of 3.3 million
- Half of all charities operated without any paid staff
- Charities spent $81.1 billion on employee expenses, up 8 per cent on the previous year's figure of $74.8 billion, and
- The most common activities for charities included religious, primary and secondary education, grant-making, social services and aged-care services.

The Australian Charities Report 2018, the sixth edition, provides fascinating insights.

Governments

Treasurer clarifies JobKeeper

Treasurer Josh Frydenberg has clarified JobKeeper payments, perhaps affecting whether certain charities and NFPs may access the scheme.

The clarifications include:

- Charities and the treatment of government revenue: Changes will allow charities (other than schools and universities) to elect to exclude government revenue from the JobKeeper turnover test. This will allow employing charities receiving revenue from government to use either their total turnover, or their turnover excluding government revenue, for the purposes of assessing eligibility for the JobKeeper payment. This will help to ensure that the eligibility of charities is not adversely affected where they are delivering significant services that are funded by government.
- Religious practitioners: Changes will allow JobKeeper payments to be made to religious institutions in respect of religious practitioners (with the exception of those who are only students), recognising that many religious practitioners are not 'employees' of their religious institutions.
- International Aid Organisations: Changes will allow entities that are endorsed under the Overseas Aid Gift Deductibility Scheme or for developed-country relief to meet the requirement that NFPs pursue their objectives principally in Australia. The current requirement that employees must be Australian residents to be eligible under the JobKeeper program would remain in place.

- Universities: Changes will clarify that the core commonwealth government financial assistance provided to universities will be included in JobKeeper turnover tests.

STP 'finalisation declaration' due soon

As part of NFPs' single-touch-payroll obligations, they are required to finalise employees' 2019–20 end-of-financial-year payroll information by 31 July if they have 19 or fewer employees and 4 July if they have 20 or more.

NFPs will need to make a 2019–20 'finalisation declaration' through STP-enabled software. Payment summaries to employees and lodging a 'payment summary' annual report to the ATO are no longer required.

DGR information updated

The ATO has updated and clarified home gifts and donations under the headings:

- What is a DGR?
- When a gift or donation is deductible
- What you can claim
- What you can't claim, and
- Keeping donation records.

See https://www.ato.gov.au/Individuals/Income-and-deductions/Deductions-you-can-claim/Other-deductions/Gifts-and-donations/?=redirected_gifts&utm_campaign=nfp_news_service_issue_5_2020&utm_source=newsletter&utm_medium=email&utm_term=20200609&utm_content=issue_5

Using scholarship funds

Many non-government schools have asked the ATO if they can use DGR-endorsed scholarship funds to provide fee relief to enrolled students during COVID-19.

The ATO has advised that DGR-endorsed scholarship funds may be used only to award scholarships for reasons of merit or equity and must be open to individuals within a region of at least 200,000 people.

A scholarship fund cannot be used to provide fee relief to families that are unable to pay their school fees, even if only for a limited period.

Scholarships can be awarded only in a way that is consistent with tax law and the governing document of a fund.

Amendments to encourage increased grants

Assistant Minister for Finance, Charities and Electoral Matters Zed Seselja has announced that the federal government is creating an incentive for philanthropic funds to support charities in times of need.

A recent JBWere report estimated that charitable giving might decrease by 7.1 per cent in 2020, and by a further 11.9 per cent in 2021 because of the pandemic.

'I will be amending the ministerial guidelines for public and private ancillary funds to provide a credit for funds that make total distributions in 2019–20 and 2020–21 that are at least four percentage points above the minimum required distributions.

The credit – equal to half the percentage points by which the distributions exceed the minimum – may be used to reduce the minimum distribution by up to one percentage point in 2021–22 and future financial years until [it] is exhausted,’ the minister said.

Mr Seselja also declared COVID-19 a disaster for the purposes of establishing Australian disaster-relief funds as DGRs, allowing them to receive tax-deductible donations.

‘This declaration will allow funds that are established for the relief of people affected by the COVID-19 pandemic to receive tax-deductible donations, and greater assist their communities.’

Donations to the funds will be tax-deductible when made within two years.

Disaster-relief funds will need to apply for formal endorsement with the ACNC.

For further information see <https://www.legislation.gov.au/Details/F2020L00684>.

Bodies coordinate philanthropic response

The Australian Communities Foundation and Philanthropy Australia have partnered to provide a national funding platform to coordinate the philanthropic response to COVID-19.

NFPs are encouraged to register their COVID-19-related funding needs so that philanthropic funders can understand the granting opportunities available and respond to the critical needs of the sector (register at <https://communityfoundation.org.au/covid-19>).

Bingo boost

Effective from 1 July, the NSW Community Gaming Act 2018 and Community Gaming Regulation 2020 has replaced the Lotteries and Art Unions Act.

The legislation covers low-risk games involving an element of chance played for charitable, social, not-for-profit and trade-promotion purposes, such as art unions, lotteries, sweeps, club bingo, and raffles.

Key changes include:

- Replacing activity-based permits with duration-based authorities (one, three, and five years)
- Increasing thresholds to require only gaming activities with high total prize values to hold an authority
- Removing the cap on ticket prices for permitted gaming activities

- Introducing a less prescriptive ‘rules’ scheme that allows operators to set their own conditions for gaming activities
- Prescribing general fairness and accountability provisions that require operators to conduct gaming activities with integrity, and
- Introduction of penalty infringement notice offences when the laws are not followed.

Red tape reduced for Queensland charities

Law changes have been introduced to reduce red tape and improve internal governances for the 22,900 incorporated associations in Queensland, including 3750 registered as charities.

Associations Incorporation and Other Legislation Amendment Bill 2019 was passed by parliament on 16 June.

An Office of Fair Trading spokesperson said: ‘We know that there are thousands of Queenslanders involved in community groups and [that] it takes a huge amount of organisation and commitment to run these associations effectively, so we are simplifying processes and reducing the administrative burden.

‘The amendments allow for certain classes of association to be exempted from the requirement to submit annual financial reports to the Office of Fair Trading.

‘This will enable the government to consider the exemption of charities who fulfil an annual financial-reporting obligation to the [ACNC] from Queensland reporting requirements.’

The new laws improve internal governance arrangements for incorporated associations, enabling those elected to represent an association to:

- Keep proper financial records
- Exercise a duty of care, due diligence, and good faith
- Not improperly use their position, or information gained through their position
- Disclose any material personal interest relating to matters considered by the management committee, and
- Not allow the association to incur debts while insolvent.

‘The government recognises that management committees of incorporated associations selflessly give their time and energies for the community and that the vast majority of them already meet the standards set in the new laws,’ said the spokesperson.

‘For these committees there will be little practical difference to their day-to-day operations from these new laws.

‘The amendments are however required to ensure the regulatory framework appropriately safeguards the integrity of the sector.

Similar standards are provided in the associations-incorporation legislation of most other jurisdictions.

‘We are also improving the internal governance of incorporated associations by requiring them to have an internal dispute-resolution process. This change will provide members of an association with an easily accessible process for resolving issues which might arise.

‘This change ensures any concerns about the application of an association’s rules are appropriately heard by that association’s management committee, with a mediation process used where necessary. Anyone appointed to determine the outcome of a dispute must be an unbiased party.

‘Management committees will also be required to disclose the level of remuneration paid to [...] committee members, senior staff, and their relatives.’

Amendments to the Associations Incorporation Regulation 1999 would be required to support the new laws, and Fair Trading would soon begin consultations on the matter.

Other amendments contained in the bill include:

- Apply the Fair Trading Inspectors Act 2014 (FTIA) to the conduct of investigations under the Associations Incorporations Act
- Clarify that an incorporated association may adopt the model rules at any time after its incorporation
- Make optional the requirement for incorporated associations to have a common seal
- Allow incorporated associations to use communications technology in the conduct of meetings without requiring associations to amend their rules
- Reduce the ineligibility for election to the management committee to five years in all situations to align with other states and territories
- Require the secretary of an incorporated association to be at least 18 years of age regardless of the circumstances in which the secretary is appointed
- Allow incorporated associations to appoint a voluntary administrator under the Corporations Act 2001 with some modifying provisions, and

- Introduce a simplified mechanism by which incorporated associations can apply to voluntarily cancel their incorporation provided they have no outstanding debts or liabilities and meet other relevant criteria.

While some of the new provisions will commence on assent, many dealing with the internal governance of incorporated associations will begin in 2021-22, giving associations time to put in place any internal procedures they deem necessary.

About GAAP Consulting

Understanding the financial reporting implications of COVID-19

In case you missed it, a recording is available of our June pop-up GAAPinar Understanding the financial reporting implications of COVID-19, with Carmen Ridley and Colin Parker.

This two-part 3.0-hour GAAPinar addressed:

- Applying more than 20 accounting standards that require consideration in the COVID-19 environment, including impairment, leases, fair value, government assistance, going concern and disclosures
- Guidance provided by the AASB and other standard-setters
- Messages from the regulators – ASIC, ACNC, and APRA
- Special-purpose financial statements, and
- Regulatory matters such as solvency statements, and
- FAQs.

A recording and PowerPoint participants' notes are available, contact andrew@gaptraining.com.au for further information or visit www.gaptraining.com.au.

Understanding the auditing implications of COVID-19

A recording is also available of our pop-up GAAPinar Understanding the auditing implications of COVID-19 with Sonya Sinclair and Colin Parker. The session is worth 3.0 CPD hours.

This two-part GAAPinar addressed:

- Applying auditing standards in COVID-19 times, including audit risk, appropriate procedures, changes in internal controls, group audits, compliance with law and regulations, professional scepticism, going concern, provision of non-assurance services, 'other information' and audit reporting (including key audit matters)
- Guidance provided by the Auditing and Assurance Standards Board and other standard-setters
- Messaging from the regulators – ASIC and ACNC, and
- FAQs.

How we can help

As well as our advisory services on the interpretation of accounting, auditing and ethics standards, GAAP Consulting can help you with:

- Financial reporting – implementation of new accounting standards such as AASB 16 Leases, and for NFPs AASB 15 Revenue from contracts with customers, AASB 1058 Income of Not-for-profit Entities and pre-issuance reviews of financial statements
- Risk management – quality-assurance reviews of audit files and risk-management systems (under auditing and ethical standards rules) and help with enquiries from regulators and accounting bodies, and managing litigation risks

- Training – face-to-face (and ZOOM video communications) and web-based (GAAPinars) training on standards, legislative developments and business risks as well as client briefings on contemporary issues for boards, accountants and auditors. There is also an extensive library of GAAPinars (www.gaptraining.com.au). Ninety hours of CPD are just a mouse-click or two away (www.gaptraining.com.au).

- Information services – use of proprietary technical content from GAAP Alert, Special GAAP Reports, and NFP Risks and Compliance newsletters to enhance your brand awareness and expertise to existing and potential clients

- Improving communication skills – we can help you to communicate better, editing and rewriting professionally your tenders, client communications, and internal manuals. They'll be clearer, simpler, more powerful and easier to read and to understand. We can also help you to prepare formal and informal talks, speeches and seminars, and

- Whistleblowing service – ReportFraud is a cutting-edge fraud protection tool you need to have. It's designed to safeguard your organisation from fraud, bribery and corruption 24 hours a day, seven days a week. It allows whistleblowers to report unethical activity safely and – most importantly – anonymously (www.reportfraud.org.au).

Use an independent whistleblowing service

Boards should consider using an independent whistleblowing service to manage their compliance and fraud risks exposures.

ReportFraud is a cutting-edge fraud protection tool you need to have. It's designed to safeguard your organisation from fraud, bribery and corruption 24 hours a day, seven days a week. It allows whistleblowers to report unethical activity safely and – most importantly – anonymously.

Use ReportFraud because it:

- Allows whistleblowers to report by web portal, email, and smartphone
- Ensures their anonymity
- Helps your organisation select an internal fraud-contact person
- Sends a report of a whistleblower's alleged fraud to him or her within 24 hours

- Is available 24/7, every day of the year
- Provides tools and quarterly newsletters to help manage your fraud risks
- Safeguards sensitive company information
- Complies with Australian law, and
- Is an independent third-party.

Once the fraud is assessed and reported, ReportFraud offers several ways of dealing with it.

An annual subscription to ReportFraud is based on employee numbers. It usually works out to be the cost of a cup of coffee per person.

Can you afford NOT to investigate how ReportFraud can help your organisation?
